“The midnineties, when Unzipped came out. Seeing supermodels Linda and Naomi made me aspire to be in fashion.”

—Bryanboy, style blogger extraordinaire, who offers relationship advice on page 242

“Figure-skating at the year-end recital; I was 9 or 10. I was doing a solo as a caveman, my fur leopard number fell off, and I was just in my underwear in front of the crowd.”

“My best fashion memory is being known as Vest Boy in grade four. I wore a lot of vests.”

—Graydon Sheppard and Kyle Humphrey, respectively, the guys behind the hilarious “Sh*t Girls Say” videos; their “Sh*t Girls Say About Fashion” is on page 130.

“The first time I was asked to work with Steven Meisel. Such a great honor!”

—Pat McGrath, CoverGirl global creative director and the makeup artist behind runway shows like Prada and Lanvin, who created four of the six bold eye looks on page 288

Glamour Asked Celebs:

What’s Your Most Memorable Outfit?

“A Valentino dress I wore to the Grammys the year I was diagnosed [with breast cancer]. I loved that dress.”
—Sheryl Crow

“I have no idea. I really just dress for the mood I’m in. The other day, I put a sticker on my forehead, because I was in a weird mood.”
—Khloé Kardashian

“A black dress I wore to my baby shower! It was such a great time, and I’ll always remember that day.”
—Kristin Cavallari

“When Heroes was nominated for a Golden Globe, I wore a white Reem Acra dress. I felt so beautiful in it.”
—Ali Larter

“Probably the iconic suit corset that Gaultier made for me for my Blonde Ambition Tour. I loved the male/female aspect of it.”
—Madonna
