“My Best (and Worst) Date Ever”

Celebrities share the details with Glamour.

▶ “I dated a guy who had really bad breath. Really bad. The elevator, the car, everything smelled like his breath. Even gum didn’t help!”
—Christina Milian of The Voice

“The worst was a setup, a blind date. When your friends pick someone out for you, they say, ‘Oh, you’ll like this guy.’ Then you meet him, and you’re going, You thought I would like him?! This particular guy was rude and was much older than I was. He seemed pained to be there. I was like, Why would this person even want to go on a date?”
—Ellie Kemper of The Office

“Worst? I had a blind date during which the woman asked me—an hour into it—if she could cut me if we ended up having sex. I was trying to be calm, so I asked, ‘With what?’ She said, ‘A knife.’ And I said, ‘Where?’ And she said, ‘Chest.’ I said, ‘Yeah...no.’ It was just crazy.”
—Paul Adelstein of Private Practice

Taye Diggs: “The best was our first date, 15 years ago.”
Idina Menzel: “We were friends, both in the original cast of Rent. One day he rode his bicycle to the theater, and after the show he put it in a taxi so we could go to an all-night café in Greenwich Village.”
Diggs: “And now we just put our two-and-a-half-year-old to bed. We’ve been together all these years, we’re married, and it started right there!” —actors Taye Diggs and Idina Menzel

“I was on a date with a guy once, and he wasn’t aware that I could see his cell phone—and the fact that he was actually texting romantic messages to another girl!”
—Lucy Hale of Pretty Little Liars

“My boyfriend and I had the best date just by staying home one evening. We cooked for four hours. We made lasagna from scratch, and our own sauce! We had a nice candlelit dinner, very simple and fun.”
—Beth Behrs of 2 Broke Girls
